

Università
Ca' Foscari
Venezia

Dipartimento di Studi sull'Asia
e sull'Africa Mediterranea

Riadh Khadi - Tunisia MIM student (Class 2015-2017)

The compelling international scope of the Master Crossing the Mediterranean: towards Investment and Integration (MIM) was what attracted me to the program. Being able to study a range of thought-provoking aspects of the Mediterranean region from different academic perspectives, as well as being able to study them in four different European universities renowned for their stellar reputations and brilliant faculty appealed to me. If you are looking for a genuinely cosmopolitan setting, if you are looking for a challenging and thrilling academic experience, and if you are looking for intriguing course content, then the master MIM is for you. Being on a constant quest for self-discovery, in an experience that pulls you out of your comfort zone and in a literally migratory-like journey have been the most exciting and challenging part of the master. If you want professors who will push you to reach your potentials, lovely colleagues who will debate the Euro-Mediterranean relations, world politics and diversity, and to be taught by famous visiting professors in their respective field of studies, then come to the master MIM. I am still planning on pursuing my PhD after I graduate but having experienced a very rich and condensed experience, it is hard for me now to make my mind about what I will research or the type of work that I will do in the future. However, I am absolutely convinced that, in Mandela's words, education is the most powerful weapon which you can use to change the world. For me, the master MIM is life-changing experience that was be the first step for academic excellence and international professional career.