Third Spatial Health Economics Workshop
Università Ca’ Foscari Venezia, Tuesday 8th-9th July 2022

Location: Venezia, Italy
Venue: San Giobbe Economic Campus, Università Ca’ Foscari Venezia
Date: 8th-9th July 2022
Organisers: Agar Brugiavini, Francesco Moscone, Giacomo Pasini, Rita Santos (York), Luigi Siciliani (York), Elisa Tosetti (Padua).

After the past successful editions held in Cambridge (Girton College, 2015) and in York (Department of Economic and Related Studies, 2017), the Third Edition of the Spatial Health Economics Workshop will be held at the Università Ca’Foscari Venezia.

We invite submissions in any area of empirical health economics that exploit data with a spatial dimension (e.g., hospitals, family doctors, nursing and care homes, regions, municipalities, small geographical areas, insurers, etc.).

The workshop provides a forum for dissemination of developments and applications of econometrics addressing issues in health economics. A selection of the papers with a spatial focus will be considered for publication in a Special Section in Regional Science and Urban Economics. Examples of topics that exploit variation in data dispersed over space include (but are not limited to) pay for performance, patients’ providers choice, unmet need, health inequalities, waiting times, competition, peer effects, public and private insurance, providers’ incentive effects, policy reforms and evaluations etc.

Scientific Committee: Agar Brugiavini, Daniel McMillen (Illinois), Francesco Moscone, Giacomo Pasini, Rita Santos (York), Luigi Siciliani (York), Elisa Tosetti (Padua), Jonathan Skinner (Dartmouth).

The workshop will last two days and will be held at Università Ca’Foscari Venezia (up to 9 papers presented).

Keynote speakers: Jonathan Skinner (The Dartmouth Institute for Health Policy and Clinical Practice at Geisel School of Medicine) and Rita Santos (Centre for Health Economics, University of York)

There are no fees.

Submission of papers:

Papers for the Workshop will be selected on the basis of full drafts.

Papers should be sent in electronic form to veraschool@unive.it no later than 6th May 2022.

Decisions will be made by 18th May 2022.

The meeting will be structured as a set of 7 oral presentations. A discussant will be assigned to each paper, and time will be allotted for open discussion.
