Post-doc Fellowship at Ca' Foscari University of Venice

“Expression of Interest” for Global at Venice - call 2021

1. Interested institution (legal person):

Ca' Foscari University of Venice

2. Department/Centre:

Department of Philosophy and Cultural Heritage - Research Institute for International Studies.

Politics and area studies provide the theoretical and conceptual basis to address some major challenges at the beginning of the 21st century, such as radicalisation, migration, and integration within increasingly multicultural and multilingual societies, both within and outside the boundaries of the European Union. The cross-fertilization of language and cultural studies with international relations, institutional and regional economics provides innovative solutions to societal and political challenge. International studies is therefore flourishing at Ca' Foscari and constitutes an area of research and teaching supporting a number of research projects and fellowships.
