Frequently Asked Questions

Q: If I win a place for a destination and at the same time I am on the reserve list for other destinations, may I wait for one of the places in the reserve list or by doing so I loose my place as winner in the first place?

A: You can win only once. If you do not accept the place you have been allocated, you loose the right to carry out the mobility. Please choose the destinations carefully! If instead you are in the reserve list, you can be selected for all the destinations.

Q: In the academic offer of the Host University there are no courses available for me according to my plan of study. What shall I do?

A: You shall choose another destination. The one you chose is not suitable for you.

Frequently Asked Questions

Q. In the Attachment A – Destinations, the University I am interested in requires IELTS 6.0. If I hold a Cambridge FCE certification, would it be considered valid by the Host University?

A: Language requirements set by the Host Universities are very different:

- If the language requirement is recommended it means that the Host University will also accept other certifications than the ones stated in the Attachment A.
- If the language requirement is compulsory it means that you must hold a language certificate. If the language certificate is stated in the attachment (i.e. IELTS 6.5 / TOEFL iBT 86) it means that you must possess a specific certificate with a specific level/score exclusively. If you do not possess one of the language certificates required with a specific level/score, the Host University will reject your application.

Check the language requirements for each University you are interested in by visiting the webpage dedicated to Incoming Exchange Students of the Host University.

Frequently Asked Question

Q: Can I participate in the Call for Application if I do not possess the language certificates required by the Host University by the deadline of the Call?

A: Yes, you can. When applying for the Overseas Call you are only required to self-certify your level of language proficiency. You must then submit the language certificate required by the Host University within the deadline for the application to the Host University (You may check the deadlines in the Attachment A – Destinations > Deadline for Application Fall/Spring semester).

ATTENTION! If you do not hold the language certificate required by the Host University by the deadline to submit the application, the Host University may reject your application and you will not be able to carry out the mobility period.

Q: Can I participate both in the Overseas Call for Application and in the Erasmus+ Study Programme Call for Application in the same academic year?

A: Yes, you can, provided that you possess the requisites for both Calls. You can carry out two mobilities with two different programmes in the same academic year. It will be your responsibility to check that the mobility periods do not overlap.
