Originally established as Italy’s first business school in 1868, Ca’ Foscari University of Venice is now a multidisciplinary institution offering a wide range of study programs in economics and management, modern languages, humanities and sciences. Ca’ Foscari is ranked third in Italy for the excellence of its research, and it has earned so many of the coveted European Commission Marie Curie research fellowships that it is one of Europe’s ten most successful universities in this regard. Globally, the QS world university rankings place Ca’ Foscari among the world’s top 150 universities for Modern Languages, the top 200 for History, and the top 250 for the study of Economics & Econometrics. The university has forged an extensive academic network of partner universities spanning the globe, allowing it to offer a variety of joint and double bachelor’s and master’s degrees and over 700 active exchange agreements with institutions all over the world.

Ca’ Foscari is located in the awe-inspiring city of Venice. With canals and boats instead of streets and cars, this city’s truly singular historic centre has been a vibrant place of cultural and economic exchange for over a millennium, and the beauty of its art and architecture has made it a UNESCO World Heritage site. Thanks to the stimulating cultural legacy of its dynamic cosmopolitan context, Ca’ Foscari is characterized by the synergetic intersection of tradition and intellectual innovation, offering its students and professors the uniquely rewarding opportunity to learn and work in one of the world’s most remarkable cities.

“Before coming to Venice for my Erasmus year I had no idea what to expect. At the end of it, what I can say, is that it was truly the most rewarding and enriching experience I have ever had. Venice is so unique and the daily life of the city is incomparable to anywhere else in the world.”
Jess from the UK

“This picture in short represents my experience studying abroad, as it is colourful and bright (taken at Burano), and like the trees, I grow up a little more. I am really surprised by how nice this experience is for me. Studying in courses that challenge me, meeting with new people every day, making friends with nice and welcoming Italians and travelling to one of the most amazing destinations in the world. I just love all the people that I have chances to meet with.”
TRAN THI HONG TOI from Vietnam
