Call for expression of interest for an Associate Professor of Korean Studies

A tenured position as Associate Professor of Korean Studies (with a focus on Korean thought and religions) is available in the Department of Asian and North African Studies at Venice Ca' Foscari University.

The appointed Associate Professor would be expected to begin service as of January 2019. The appointment would be made directly by invitation. There is no formal application procedure.

We will consider only those candidates who have completed three years in Associate Professor or equivalent status and are capable of conducting classes in either English or Italian. Knowledge of Modern Korean Language at native or near-native level is also required. Willingness on the part of the candidate to teach additional courses in Korean language at elementary or intermediate level is considered an asset.

At this stage, the classes will be exclusively on the undergraduate level. We look forward, however, to developing a graduate program in Korean studies.
