Abstract	The Crossborder Acceleration Bridge project addresses a common challenge of the Program area concerning the lack of effectiveness of technology transfer of research results to enterprises, with the aim of improving the innovation capacity of the Program area-particularly by insisting on the areas of specialization identified by the S3s-increasing its overall competitiveness and strengthening collaboration among key players in the cross-border innovation ecosystem. Creating a network of Italian and Slovenian actors who will test and implement in the long run a new cross-border service for business acceleration, capable of promoting investment in the development of innovative products/services and technology transfer from R&D centers to enterprises is indeed the goal of CAB.
